COMMENTS ON QUESTIONNAIRE

Overview

The statements listed under "Prediction" in the questionnaire cover several different areas. Our intention is basically one of providing answers to two major questions: (1) How much time would applicants be willing to spend in activities related to a projected new mode of certification? (2) How much money would they be willing to spend? A third matter of interest to us is how familiar educators are with the competence-based teacher education movement (CBTE). Together the various frames are both informational and indicative of concerns supporting or militating against it.

We would appreciate your response to any question below which you consider relevant. You may also include any other(s) you consider important.

(1) Describe your overall reaction to the questionnaire.

(2) Which questions appear to be in the wrong order?

(3) Which questions require different wording?

(4) Which questions would you eliminate?

Prediction	This seems: 1. Quite unlikely 2. Remotely possible 3. Quite likely	This would be: 1. Undesirable 2. Inconsequential 3. Desirable	If this is suggested, my colleagues should: 1. Resist 2. Ignore 3. Promote

Developmental Services

June 21, 1976

Dear

In September 1975 the Teacher Education Developmental Service continued its operation for the third consecutive year with some modifications. Instead of focusing for the most part on assisting higher education institutions to develop proposals meeting the State mandate for performance-based teacher education programs, services were broadened to include two research projects. The first project has concentrated on institutional processes which have been reorganized, changed, or remained relatively intact to meet the mandate by developing a proposal(s); that is, some new arrangements of work have often resulted from these internal efforts of institutions and such role groups as teachers, administrators, professors, and their respective bargaining units.

The second project is an effort to describe the individuals applying for certification through the individual review process. This study will be completed by August 1976. It involves first a description of the characteristics of persons in the population and a survey of attitudes toward some projected possibilities for a different mode of certification for beginning educators.

We have contacted you because we need your cooperation to conduct a pilot study of the questionnaire we hope to use in the survey. One-hundred eleven (111) educators in the Capital City area and several others in the state will also be asked to complete the questionnaire and comment on the order, format, and frames. A stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed, and we would be especially grateful if you would complete it and return it to us seven (7) days after receiving it.

We would also be grateful if you would be tolerant of two further procedural steps. As soon as the forms are returned we will review the comments and attempt to contact a few individuals for more information. Your response will obviously help us to assess our efforts specifically regarding the questionnaire, but they will, in addition, contribute to our overall effort to complete the study.

Please feel free to contact me at any of the numbers below if you have any questions.

Developmental Services

July 16, 1976

Dear Friend,

We are currently in the process of completing a report for the Teacher Education Developmental Service (TEDS). In essence, this report is a descriptive profile of persons seeking certification in New York State through individual review procedures. In addition to describing the characteristics of individuals identified in this study, we are also conducting a survey to answer two questions: (1) How much time would applicants be willing to spend if assessment activities are developed in a particular mode, i.e., performance or competence-based? And (2) how much money would they be willing to spend in order to support this activity? We expect to complete this report by the end of this month.

The questionnaire enclosed has been forwarded to educators within the state as well as in other sections of the country. We really need your cooperation at this time to complete our work and report our findings.

If you would be kind enough to review our questionnaire and score it according to the brief instructions provided, we would be grateful. A stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience. We would frankly like to anticipate the return of the questionnaire seven days after you receive it. The final document will be available for inspection by anyone interested in the TEDS Library which is located in the School of Education. We do hope that you will respond to this invitation after September 1, 1976.

Sincerely,

Ira Tolbert
